Davies to Testify In His Own Defense As Case Nears End

DEFENDANT BELIEVES HE CAN EXPLAIN TRANSACTIONS IN WHICH HIS NAME IS MENTIONED—SOME DAMAGING TESTIMONY PRESENTED—EXPERT ACCOUNTANT REVIEWS EXAMINATION OF ACCOUNTS

ELYRIA, March 16—The Davies case was slow in getting started this morning, in fact court did not convene until nearly eleven o'clock This was occasioned by the fact that certain books of Otis & Co., of Cleveland, had just arrived and had to be looked over before R. H Bunninger, expert accountant, could take the stand.

When he finally was called the witness testified that he had obtained a record of the number of drafts made out by Mr. Davies and sent to Otis & Co., The First National Bank of Cleveland, and others during the years 1916-17-18-19 and gave a list of them. There were about sixteen drafts in four years.

He was questioned as to what the drafts were for and he said they were for stocks, all of which had been delivered at the bank.

Opinion Lacked Knowledge

He also testified as to the plus and shortage account of the bank, saying that all banks had such an account. From his analysis of the account of the City Bank, he was of the opinion none of it arose through a shortage in stock transactions. He was questioned closely by Attorney Meals as to how he

ELYRIAN FINDS REMAINS WHILE HUNTING TWIGS

ELYRIA, March 16—The body of Lucas Szczenski, 59, was found lodged among willows near the LaPorte bridge over black river at five o'clock Tuesday afternoon by Conrad Goodman, 27. 423 13th st., who had been fishing.

Szczenski was last seen on Sunday, March 6, while returning to Lorain after a visit with his family at Birmingham, Erie county. He was aboard the car which arrived in Elyria at five o'clock.

It is thought that he boarded the Grafton instead of Lorain car and ater discovering his mistake got off the car at LaPorte and started towards Elyria when he fell off the bridge and was drowned.

Milk Fallon, Cleveland, Columbus and Southwestern Electric conductor, said Szczenski got off the car which arrived in Elyria at five o'clock on the afternoon of Sunday, March 6.

No Marks of Violence

Police Chief E. J. Stankard, Sheriff N. D. Backus and Coroner M. E Perry were called with the finding of the body, viewed the remains and no marks of violence were found upon the body. A small amount of change was found in the pockets indicating that the man had not met with foul play and robbed.

Coroner Perry is withholding a verdict in the case until he has a chance to talk to the crew on the Grafton car which worked on the night Szczenski was last seen.

The grip carried by Szczenski has not been found but officials believe that the grip could have easily sunk or floated down the river. On account of the high water during the past ten days officials say it is possible that the body could have floated down the river for a considerable distance before being lodged among the willows at the point where the body was recovered.

The body was taken to the Friday Funeral Parlors and late this afternoon is expected to be removed to the Schultz Funeral Parlors at Lorain from where funeral services will probably be held tomorrow or Friday.

Near Body All Night

The dead man was employed as janitor at the National Tube Co., Lorain, and roomed with his son, who is a Lorain mail carrier, at 1956 East 29th street, Lorain.

Officials declare that Szczenski is known to be a heavy drinker and declare that he had been drinking on the day he disappeared.

Conrad Good, who with Frank Coniac were fishing in the vicinity of the LaPorte bridge, found the body while hunting twigs and branches with which to build a fire.

"I fished the night before at the same point where we found the body," said Mr. Goodman today "It is probable the body was within a few feet from us thruout the night without our knowledge and in fact we must have cast our lines over the body. The night was warm and we did not build a fire, otherwise we probably would have found the body the night before."

APPROVE COMMITTEE ACTION ON TAX LEVIES

LORAIN, March 16.—Members of the Taxation Committee of the Lorain Chamber of Commerce returned home this morning from Columbus where they were in conference with the citizens' taxation committee of the state legislature. They endorsed the report of the Citizens' Committee relative to a change of various tax levies proposed by the chambers of commerce throughout the state, Manager G. W. Dudderar of the local chamber of commerce headed the Lorain committee.

The building question will make it possible to do away with the greater part of the state tax levy, thereby avoiding a source of friction between the taxing districts; compel an income tax; make it available to the legislature many sources of revenue which it has been found impossible to reach by taxation under the uniform rule, and it will afford an opportunity for a taxing system which can be enforced.

'PAY AS YOU GO' POLICY URGED ON LEGISLATORS BY GOVERNOR

Republican House Members in Caucus Favor Passage of Dunn Bill — Senate Cannot Properly Clean Up Its Business to Adjourn March 31st

COLUMBUS, March 16—In caucus, republican house members agreed to pass the Dunn bill, reorganizing the state departments, in the form in which it is reported by the house re-organization committee. It is understood that the measure is to be passed Friday and that it will contain an emergency clause, making it effective as law as soon as it passes the senate and is approved by Governor Davis.

The bill will be the subject of committee hearings in the senate, it is said. Complying with the governor's request the house will reduce the number of departments to eight from nine by eliminating the proposed department of examinations.

Declaring that adoption of a pay as-you-go policy in state, city, county and other political sub-divisions "is imperative" and stating that continuation of the present plan of taxation in Ohio would mean "our complete forgetfulness and disregard of our responsibilities to posterity and the passing to our children as their heritage of a crushing debt problem," Governor Davis transmitted to the state legislature copies of the report made to him by his recent citizens' taxation committee.

Advocates State Income Tax

The governor's committee recommended submission of a proposed amendment to the state constitution abolishing the uniform rule of taxation, providing for tax limitations on real estate and requiring enactment of an income tax.

Expressing hope that the present legislature will try to provide a satisfactory remedy for Ohio's taxation ills, the governor said that ineffectiveness of the prevailing taxation system is due to failure to enact debt limitation tax when the Smith one per cent. law was passed, to increase cost of labor and expenses in government,

ENGLISH DUPLICITY TOWARD ERIN IS SHOWN IN OPEN LETTER

LORAIN, March 16.—The appended letter was received by Capt. J. J. O'Doherty of No. 2 fire station from Margaret M. Madden of Columbus. State secretary of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic, which statement has been issued by the representatives of the Irish Republic.

The letter was sent to the Times-Herald on Monday by Capt. O'Doherty for publication and to be in turn sent to the Chronicle-Telegram for publication on the same day. The letter was not published and was returned to Capt. O'Doherty yesterday.

The Chronicle-Telegram herewith publishes the letter:

Sir:

A new peace offensive is being launched against the Irish Republic. England would have the world believe she is anxious for peace at time she is carrying on her campaign of assassination, burning, looting and reprisals behind the smoke screen of peace thus created by her news service. Side by side with this morning's peace terms we read that General Macready's courts martial have sentenced to be hanged Bernard Ryan, Patrick Doyle, Thomas Bryan, Frank Flood. This is the peace England offers Ireland. This peace propaganda is in line with England's traditional policy to get the world to believe she is anxious for peace and at the same time her troops are guilty of every possible abomination in Ireland.

The representatives of the Irish people have time after time expressed their desire for peace. England can have peace tomorrow by withdrawing her army of occupation and her uniformed assassins from Ireland. Dail Eireann has issued a manifesto to the world pledging the people of Ireland, their representatives, to be faithful to the Cause of an Independent Irish Republic until death. Our friends in America need no assurance of Ireland's determination to pay the full price for her liberty on this day. They can best aid in answering this peace propaganda of England by a determined effort to secure the Recognition of the Irish Republic from their Government. Henry J. Boland."

At the O'Callaghan meeting in Cincinnati Monday evening protests will be registered against the continued murders reprisals and killings in Ireland. Lord Mayor Donal O'Callaghan has now addressed over fifty meetings and everywhere has been received with enthusiasm by tremendous crowds.

LIFE SUCCESS DISCUSSED BY WALTER MEALS

Inspiring Address Delivered at Banquet Last Evening of Young Men's Business Club—Farewell for H. H. Perry

ELYRIA, March 16.—Judge Walter D. Meals, Cleveland, in an inspiring address before the Young Men's Business Club at its banquet in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium last evening, appealed to the better innerself of men to develop the higher stanuards of manhood and to promote devotion to one's country.

"Ninety per cent of those who are trying to tell others how to run their business fail themselves," said the speaker.

"Honesty, integrity, ability and faith in fellow workers and faith and devotion to one's country," he said were prerequisites for success. were prerequisites for success.

"I have no patience with the person who says he can't," continued the speaker. "Every person has an opportunity to acquire success and an honorable position in the community.

Judge Meals took an opportunity to compliment the city declaring that his assertion that Elyria is beautiful, especially in the summer months, is no idle flattery."

The speaker said that often a city becomes too large and declared that residents of the smaller community, by intimate associateship with their fellowmen, get the most out of life in the end.

He related an impressive sight that he viewed on visiting President and Mrs. Harding at the White House. He said he was inspired by the plain Americanism displayed by the chief executive and first lady of the land. He said the president is the world's foremost and most potent ruler and, is a real leader while the kings or presidents of other countries are mere figureheads. Mr. Meals said that nine of the 28 U. S. presidents had not had a college education and admonished those present who did not have a college education not to despair. Of the nine U. S. presidents who did not have a college education, he said, the two who stand out the most conspicuous are Washington and Lincoln. Lincoln, he said, acquired his knowledge on the cellar door while Washington, he thought, got all his education in Braddock's campaign. He said education can be acquired at home just as good as within the college or university walls if the person was inclined to assiduous study.

H. H. Perry, retiring secretary of the club, who has accepted the position as secretary of the Chamber of Commerce at Fremont was given a farewell recepton by the club and presented with a smoking stand. Mr. Perry responded thanking the club and hoping the organization would turn out en masse when the Elyria club installs a Young Men's Business Club at Fremont.

FINDS MUCH MONEY

ELYRIA, March 16—Police were stifled last night when Mrs. Mahon, 123 Spruce street, turned over to them a pocketbook containing an unusually large sum of money, which she said she had found in the business district, and which the owner could have by adequate identification. "There's an abnormally honest woman," remarked the police after the West Side lady departed.

ELYRIA, March 16.—Based largely upon the testimony of star witness Adam Agsten and identifications by Frank Joltus Mayor Asaph R. Jones late Tuesday afternoon bound Clifford Wood, Oscar Stalla and Paul Rose over to the grand jury on the charge of assaulting with intent to rob Joltus.

Bond in each cases was set at $1,000 which the trio of prominent Elyrians furnished, insuring their liberty until the grand jury convenes early next month.

George Smith of 106 Longford avenue and Donald Dean of Furnace street, who had been held by the police in connection with the case were discharged as it was clearly shown they could not have been connected with the affair in any way.

Returning From Celebration.

Joltus, former employe of the Willys-Overland, was returning home from a wedding celebration at Lorain. As he was about to enter the Hotel Ohio, formerly Jackson Hotel, corner Broad street and West avenue he was shanghaied, beaten groggy, carried to an alley in the rear of the hotel and robbed

Agsten, night clerk at the hotel was the star witness. He related that he was on duty Sunday night shortly after midnight when he was attracted by a scuffle in front of the hotel. He said he saw Wood and Rose tussling with a man, who he said he later learned was Joltus. Agsten asserted he was possitive it was Wood and Rose and not Wood and Stalla that he saw in the scuffle and later with the then unknown man underneath he said they disappeared beyond view from the window to which he had stepped when what he thought was a fight had started.

The abduction and robbery occurred in the heart of the business distirct an is one of the boldest on record at police headquarters.

Municipal Court Bill Certain To Pass Legislature Is Opinion Expressed by Lorain Attorneys

Judge Harding and Lawyer Coleman Return From Legislature After Boosting Measure Before Committee, Which Is Expected to Report as a Whole Today

LORAIN, March 16.—That the state senate committee, appointed to work out details in connection with Senator J. Frank Burke's municipal court bill, will report favorably on the measure, is the belief of Judge John M. Harding and Attorney Frank Coleman of this city, who returned home last night after conferring with a majority of the committee members.

The committee as a whole does not meet until today. The Lorain attorneys discussed the bill with the majority of the committee members.

According to Judge Harding of the Lorain criminal court, the committee members are in favor of the municipal court for Lorain, but are of the opinion that the courts should be guided by some form of uniformity. That is, that every municipal court should be operated along one general line.

Breaks Combination Of Open Iron Chest Then Courage Oozes

LORAIN, March 16 —Safe blowers early this morning entered the grocery store of Jesph Nemesek, 400 West 22nd street, and after breaking off the combination and door lever, were frightened away by the footsteps of Mrs. A. Blear, who lives over the store.

The attempted burglary took place between 3 and 4 o'clock, according to police officers who are investigating.

They found that the yeggs gained entrance through a rear door after prying open a door.

Bootless Task of Yeggs

The most surprising fact, if it had been known by the yeggman, was, that the safe was unlocked and that they could have secured the money without breaking the steel vault open. The yeggs broke off the combination and door lever, when frightened away.

Mrs. Blear, told police this morning that she was awakened at about 3:30 o'clock by a noise in the store room downstairs, that she arose and took a drink of water and did not hear any more noise from the store room and went back to bed.

Police believe that the noise caused by the woman's footsteps, when she walked for the glass of water, frightened the burglars away.

Police say there was a large amount of money in the safe.

ALLIES ARE MORE THAN JUST

There may be some doubt as to the wisdom of the allied invasion of more German territory as means of bringing about a satisfactory reparations settlement, but there is no doubt as to the justice of the allied demands. Justice, in this matter, must take precedence over sympathy, the same as in the case of a condemned criminal. A man sentenced to death for murder almost always inspires a certain amount of sympathy, but this does not ordinarily interfere with the proper execution of the sentence.

It must be kept in mind that Germany is not asked to pay a war indemnity. When Germany defeated France in 1871 she required France to pay her $1.000.000,000, which was more than double what the war cost Germany. That was an indemnity, pure and simple, since no damage whatever had been inflicted upon German territory. In the present case the allies are not asking Germany to pay any part of their war cost. What they are asking is that Germany pay for about one-half of the damage which her invading armies inflicted upon private property in the allied countries.

If the allies had asked a war indemnity, their demands upon Germany would have been stupendous.

The approximate cost of the principal allied nations of carrying on the war was $116.000.000.000. Losses inflicted by the German invasion were approximately $40.000,000,000 more. This cash total of $156.000.000.000 spread over 42 years on the same interest basis as the recent demand would total about $460.000.000.000. To double this sum, as the Germans did in 1871, would mean a total demand of $.20,000,000,000, or close to a trillion dollars.

In 1871, too France had been damaged by a German invasion prior to her defeat, yet had to pay an indemnity equal to double German war cost. Now France is again the injured nation, yet is the victor, and is asking that Germany pay a part of the invasion damage. Had Germany won the war it is certain that she would have imposed an enormous indemnity. The allies have asked the equivalent of about $21.000.000 cash as compared to the $300,000,000.000 which Germany intended to demand in case of victory.

Irrespective of any other consideration in connection with the reparations settlement, it must be admitted by the world that the demands of the allies, far from being harsh, represent greater generosity to a vanquished foe than could reasonably be expected.

THE EIGHT-HOUR DAY

Officials of the United States Steel Corporation have recently announced that the seven-day twelve-hour week, with a turn of eighteen or twenty-four hours when shifts are changing, has been eliminated. To date no official announcements have appeared relative to the future policy for the recasting of the company's wage policy though prospects point to the adoption of a six-day, eight hour week.

Judge Gary has gone on record as favoring the new three-shift principal. The only excuse heretofore made for retaining the system that obliged many workers to labor as many as twelve to fourteen hours a day was the labor shortage and the desire of the men themselves to earn as much money as possible. This emergency created by the war was urged as further justifying the long day.

However industrial conditions are now reversed, and there is no emergency demanding the capacity output necessary during the war period.

The steel industry is operating on a part time basis while labor is plentiful and therefore it appears most opportune to install the new time schedule.

It is now clearly established from the standpoint of metallurgical necessity that the blast furnace is the only department of a modern steel plant demanding continuous operation. Other departments have operated continuously only to increase output.

Notwithstanding extensive utilization of mechanical devices and power machinery in certain operations many departments still demand much unskilled labor. The physical and mental exhaustion attendant on long hours of service has told on the men.

Many have grown old and incapacitated though still young in years. Much as the business community looks to lower prices in this basic industry it will not be adverse, if necessary, to paying the cost of this humanitarian change of policy. The entire steel industry will be placed on better basis. When properly organized and put into operation it should, as in many other case of reduced hours, bring increased efficiency and a more contented labor force.

How Advertising Fills Your Purse

Saves $150
Sowing Seeds
It's True of Clothes
In Your Easy Chair
500,000 Washing Machines

An Editorial On Advertising

Advertising of a worthy product lowers cost because it intensifies action. The biggest expense cost of any merchant or any manufacturer—is overhead cost. The fixed expenses like rent, clerk hire, bookkeeping expense, machinery costs, etc., he must pay no matter what he sells.

When through advertising he doubles and trebles his sales, this overhead expense increases very little so his profits increase greatly. Thus, he can decrease prices.

A manufacturer who sells 500,000 washing machines a year can afford to give bigger value for the customer's money than the manufacturer who sells 10,000 a year. This is a fact. The greater the production, the less the cost of production.

So when a manufacturer through advertising increases his production he either lowers the cost of the article he sells or puts more value into that article. This benefits the merchant and benefits the consumer.

The benefits of advertising increase in a cycle.

First advertising at a surprisingly low cost increases the sale of the merchandise. This increased sale makes possible an increase of value of the merchandise—or a decrease in price. This increase in value for the same money or the same value for less money in turn stimulates more purchases which again increases value of decreases prices and so on and so on.

To illustrate how advertising lowers cost to the consumer, we may take the example of a well known motor car. The advertising cost per sale is $50 per car.

But without the great sales which advertising built for this company—the cost of making and selling this car would be at least $200 more. So advertising in this instance has saved the consumer $150. It has saved the consumer really more because the manufacturer will make more total money by selling many cars, each one at a small percentage of profit than a few at a great percentage of profit.

What is true of motor cars is true of clothes, of food products, of everything we buy and use every day.

The most economical clothes, the most economical food, the best values are invariably the well advertised brands.

And the best merchandise, the greatest value for each dollar you invest is found at the store of the merchants who enjoy the greatest patronage, because of the confidence they have built up through truthfully advertising well advertised brands.

We have said advertising intensifies action. When you think of it this means the greatest possible protection for the customers.

For no advertiser can afford to invest money in advertising an article that is not worthy. He might sell this product at first through advertising, but there could be no repeat orders and instead of building up confidence he would be sowing the seeds of discontent.

So today the manufacturer or merchant who succeeds in advertising first of all must advertise a product in which he has absolute faith. No advertiser has succeeded over any length of time unless he stood squarely behind the products he sold.

Such advertisers have made their reputation through the integrity of their product and the truthfulness of their advertising about that product.

Your confidence in advertised goods and institutions is justified, because of these facts:

It does not pay to advertise inferior products.

It does pay to advertise worthy products.

Read the papers and read the advertising. You can believe in it and right in your own home, sitting in your easy chair, you can pick out the things you want at the prices you want to pay.

It pays to read advertising because it saves you shopping around.

Advertising — newspaper advertising — is a direction a protection and a saving to the buyer. Read it.

Voice Of The People

Reply to Henry Heidrich and W. T. Shaw

Possibly it will be of interest to both of these gentlemen to learn that many of the cities of old U. S. do not agree with the program of the Elyria Employers' association making a twenty per cent cut in wages. Secretary Heidrich says, "Therefore it was deemed wise to demand a twenty per cent. reduction in wages in all crafts on and after April 1st, 1921. Will you kindly notify the different craftsmen accordingly."

New York City is the key to the building situation. The building will amount to millions upon millions. Beyond human comprehension but in spite of all the organized effort made to lower wages everywhere "The New York building contractors have signed ironclad agreements to continue the 1920 wage scale to 1921, without agreement was satisfactory to the craftsmen and they all signed through their authorized representatives. The City of St. Louis has just come through a terrible contest over the program of "reduction of wages." The fight began January 1st, resulting in a lockout of the men. After all this wasted time the men were put to work "on their own terms." In Dallas, Texas, the "Open Shop" program was worked to a finish on reduction of wages and the destruction of organized labor." The merchants of the city joining in with the foes of labor in a "holy crusade" against the working people, but the "stars were against them and worked for the people and as a result Dallas, Texas, surrendered and the efforts of the men who wanted to "play fair were crowned with victory and glory.

When a building business agent was apprised of the settlement in New York he said, "The employers in that city are shrewd. They knew big work is ahead, that everybody will be busy and making money if the men are working. New York builders employ more men than are working in similar capacities in all other cities of the States combined." Settlement in this great center ought to give some insight to the many who now seem to be blind to present day conditions

THREE BOUND OVER TO APRIL GRAND JURY

Willys-Overland plant, at the corner of Lodi street and Lake avenue shortly before midnight. Widder said Joltus told him he got off a Yellow line car at the turn onto Lodi street thinking it was the public square. Widder said he talked with Joltus until a car approached which Joltus boarded. Widder said Joltus appeared to have been drinking but was not what he would call intoxicated.

Joltus in testifying said that he was assaulted and robbed between ten and eleven o'clock. The police record gives the time at ten minutes after midnight. The difference in the time may be through an hour's difference between time used in Elyria and time used on the railroad where Joltus is employed.

Officer Widder said Joltus showed him a large roll of money.

Mayor Jones threatened to adjourn the case when attorneys started to delve into the case too minutely until such time that City Solicitor D. A. Baird could be present. There was considerable comment among the gallery for the state not being represented by an attorney.

Officer F. Berkline testified that Joltus approached him in a frightened manner and asked to be locked up for protection. Inquiry, Berkline said, resulted in Joltus declaring that he had been assaulted and robbed. Berkline said the man was pale white and shaking like a leaf in the autumn breeze. Joltus at first refused to go to the scene of the crime, said Berline, but later, when assurred of adequate protection consented to go.

Cut mud indicating that a person had been dragged. The marks lead from in front of the hotel to the alley in the rear of the hotel where Berkline said he saw numerous footprints and an indication that a scuffle had taken place.

Money By Spots.

Berkline's interepretation of Joltus' identification of U. S. money, put the big gallery in humor. "Me had one twenty spot, two ten spot and some of those singles," Berkline said Joltus said to him.

Joltus said the gang cautioned him "Don't say nothing."

Berkline told of getting the tip which resulted in the arrest of seven persons, two of whom had previously been released and after the examination Tuesday afternoon Donald Dean and George Smith were discharged after being reprimanded by the court.

Dean showed, to the satisfaction of the court that he happened later to be in the crowd but was not present when the hold-up occurred. Smith was released when he told of being asleep in the hotel and being awakened when his chair toppled over precipitating him to the floor. Smith said it was after his sudden awakening that he first learned of the assault and hold-up. Smith admitted that he was drunk.

Officer Berkline said that in the auto in which Wood and Stalla were taken to police headquarters that he found $4 in bills, stuffed back of the seat cushion on the side which Wood rode. Joltus identified that money as part of the loot taken.

Berkline also testified that he saw Wood, Stalla, Rose, Charles Held and Fred Hadaway in the group at the rear of the St. John's Lutheran church in an argument. Berkline said that the arguement was renewed before he had inspected the scene in the alley in the rear ceased when he approached.

Argue Over Spoils.

Police have a suspicion that the argument may have been over the spoils of the robbery but this suspicion, however, is not a part of the police report of the crime. Police said that the grand jury may return other indictments after a thorough investigation of the case has been made. It is possible that one or two of the four men released by the police and one or two others whom the police have not grilled may be dragged into the net controlled by the strong arm of the law.

Ayren, Hotel Ohio night clerk testified that Wood, Rose and Stella were so intoxicated that he was compelled to eject the trio from the hotel lobby.

Officer Corbett Southam testified that Joltus appeared to be groggy rather from blows received in the face than from intoxicating liquors. Southam said that he wouldn't call Joltus as having been drunk although he appeared as though he had been drinking. Joltus on the stand testified that he had taken two small glasses of wine before leaving Lorain at about 9:45 Sunday night and had apparently wandered on the west side for 30 or 45 minutes before being directed up town by Officer Widder.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

and to failure to enforce the uniform rule.

The senate has referred to its rules committee the Crabbe resolution, unanimously adopted by the house last week, providing for sine die adjournment on March 31.

Senate Will Stick

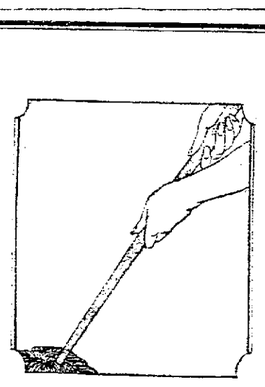

Senator Whittemore, Akron, republican floor leader, announced that "the senate will stay on the job and consistently perform the duties entrusted to it." He said the house members know it is impossible to adjourn on March 31. Senator Whittemore said it is impossible to give proper consideration in the senate by March 31 to the important measures which the upper legislative branch will be called upon to pass.

Defeating the emergency clause, the house, by a vote of 91 to 13, passed the McCoy bill prohibiting exhibition of immoral motion pictures and movies depicting any form of crime. The bill goes to the senate.

Senator Norwood's bill, permitting trial judges to fix minimum sentences of prisoners, passed the house, 91 to 14. The bill goes to the governor.

The senate, by a vote of 14 to 22 defeated the McCoy-Bender bill, seeking to provide for permanent tenure of school teachers.

DAVIES TO TESTIFY

arrived at that conclusion, and said it was from the reports made by the bank tellers. He finally acknowledged that he really had no knowledge as to whether stock transactions figured in the account or not, but in his opinion they did not.

The testimony in the case is expected to be all in by tonight or early tomorrow morning. Mr. Davies was to be called to the stand on his own defense this afternoon.

John Danko, former employe of the City Bank of Lorain, took the stand for the defense Tuesday afternoon. He testified that Treble had charge of all stock transactions while the witness was employed there. He was in the room when the bank examiners arrived and did not remember Davies leaving the room and going to see Treble. The witness did not remember many more of the transactions he was asked about, saying he was the bookkeeper only.

Murray Friedman, stock broker, of Cleveland, formerly in the employ of Worthington, Bellows & Co., through whom Treble sold stocks, took the stand. He told of meeting Treble in Cleveland and arranging with him to handle some of his business. A few days later he was called on the phone and given an order to sell over $375,000 worth of stock. The witness said he was startled at the size of the order and asked what was the matter with the people of Lorain.

Trying to Get Into Market.

Treble replied that the boys were trying to get in on the market. The next day he got an order to sell over $756,000 worth of stock, and then asked to talk to Davies. Treble told him that Davies was out or busy. The witness said he talked with Treble four times that day and each time asked to talk to Davies but always received word that Davies was not there. The next day he visited Lorain with Mr. Bellows and a companion. They saw Treble as they entered the bank and Davies came up and greeted them. Right away Treble said Davies was busy and they would go out and take a look around town, so they started in an automobile and finally wound up at Albers where they had lunch. Later they took Treble back to Lorain. The witness said that Treble told him to have all mail addressed to him personally.

Witness in Doubt.

Judge Meals cross examined the witness. In answer to questions he said that when he talked to Treble over the phone he did not know whether Davies did not want to talk to him or whether he was really out as Treble said.

He acknowledged that the size of the transactions he was asked to put through caused him uneasiness and that was why he wanted to talk with Davies, to see if he would tell him the same story that Treble did. He said he did not talk to Davies when he was in Lorain because Treble was present, and he was simply protecting his business. He stated also that at one time Davies had a private account in his wife's name. He held 100 shares of Erie preferred, but denied that Davies ever had any other stock with them. The checks to cover the margins on stock he said might not all be for margins on this stock, but he was sure it was not for any other stock. Asked if Davies should testify that he did not have other stock, the witness said he would deny it.

$70,000 per Month.

R. H. Bunning, expert accountant of Cleveland, was called. He stated that he had examined the books of the City Bank of Lorain, and Otis & Co., and had tabulated all the dealings in stock purchases between the two during 1917, 1918, 1919. Drafts in 1916 amounted to $1,963,857.29, an average of $70,202.72 per month.

He went over the figures of purchases for each year running into millions of dollars. They showed that in the month of January, 1919, when Treble was ill, only $8,808.12 was purchased.

The defense insisted that Otis & Co's books be brought into court, and the court finally adjourned to allow them to do so.

— Minimum Bills —

We are often asked why it is necessary to charge a customer a minimum monthly bill. To some it seems unreasonable "whether you use it or not" but——is it really unreasonable? Is the public receiving that square deal which every American demands as his right?

Consider the question in all its fairness and you will find the reason why an interesting one.

If you regard that monthly payment as an interest charge on the electrical equipment which is used exclusively for you, it will seem fair enough.

There is a meter in your cellar and a system of mains and cables going right up to the door. The flow of current through your street is constant night and day, so that any time you may turn a stream of it into your home.

A delivery system as rapid as a desire; dependable as an honest man's promise, but this problem of distribution is the biggest and most costly that the central station has to tackle.

Indeed, for every $2.00 invested in generating equipment, between $3.00 and $4.00 must be added for equipment to deliver the current to your door—distribution.

Then too, distribution requires that poles be erected, wires strung, lines maintained through the heaviest weather, regardless of expense, in order that this service may come interruptedly to you.

These little problems must be solved behind the scenes before the show can proceed, but you enjoy the show and do not want the stage hands to work for nothing.

That is why you pay the minimum service charge—so much a month for which the central station gives full return.

We will further discuss minimum bills and service charges tomorrow.

SOVIET JOBS GALORE IN TROTZKY'S RETREAT

By WILLIAM L. MALLABAR,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, March 16.—It takes five officials to oversee the work done by two others, according to a bunch of statistics issued in the Krasnaya Gazette—the official Bolshevist organ.

The Bolshevik comissary Larin reports in its latest issue of the paper received here that of the 1,100,000 inhabitants left in Moscow no less than 25 per cent of them are Soviet officials, and with their families they constitute one-half of the population of Moscow.

These 250,000 officials have the assistance of 113,000 lady secretaries, so apparently some of them are without clerical assistance.

After 250,000 officials have the assistance of 113,000 lady secretaries, so apparently a few of them are without clerical assistance.

After mentioning the fact that it takes five officials to supervise the work of two men. Commissary Larin states that he finds that the department with fewest controllers do the best work.

The Moscow office of the Ministry of Education employs 1,620 persons and the Office of Fine Arts has 1,613 people in its employ.

Prisoners Can Talk All They Want to in Joliet "Pen"

(By International News Service)

JOLIET, Ill., March 16.—Talking no longer is a punishable offense in the state penitentiary here. Prisoners hereafter may chat all they want to on the topics of the day and other innocuous subjects.

"In olden days when officials confined an inmate for only the view of punishing him for his crime the rule of silence was strictly adhered to," explained Judge C. H. Jenkins, director of public welfare. "In the long days of silence the mind of the prisoner turned to and dwelt on vicious subjects."

A "progressive merit" system also has been established. A board composed of the warden, his assistant, a psychologist and two subordinate officials will determine the progress of each convict.

"Each prisoner is informed what is expected of him and what he must learn before he can be freed," said John P. Whitman, superintendent of prisons.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia To Overcome Trouble, Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence o fthe presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid-indigestion."

Acid stomachs ar edanerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis arcompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food rermentt and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of tse vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Manesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.—Advt.

SECTION 2. A soft drink place under this ordinance is defined to be a place where any liquid or liquor is sold for beverage purposes that contains alcohol: provided, however that this ordinance shall not apply to a bona fide drug store.

CANDIDATE TO CONDUCT AIR PLANE CAMPAIGN

(By International News Service.)

FORT WORTH, Tex., March 16.—Enter airplanes into politics.

With election day set for April 5, W. D. Davis, seeking re-election as mayor of Fort Worth, has "birdmen" campaigning for him from the air, probably the first time in history that such a feat has been worked.

Two airplanes will drop campaign literature over the city each day from now on until the close of the campaign, Mayor Davis declares. The Davisonian idea has created considerable interest in the warmest municipal election in the history of this city.

"The buzzing of airplane motors" says Davis, "characterizes the hum of my administration. The idea keeps the public alive to the fact that I'm running about as fast as the airplanes."

The Confidences Little Marion Revealed.

ROBERT SAVARIN! The unexpected sound of the artist's name from Marion's childish lips startled me so much that for a second I forgot my invariable rule never to question a child or an employe concerning any matter not my own affair. I asked quickly, sharply:

"What do you mean, Marion, by your mother worrying about Uncle Robert?"

I would have given a great deal to recall the question. I hoped devoutly that Lillian would never learn that I had asked it. But I knew that to forbid the child answering me—the eager words were already tumbling from her lips—would only have confused her, made her uneasy and vaguely suspicious of me, something which I could not brook. So I listened in silence to the little girl's eager utterance.

"Why, I mean she worries about his being away up there in the mountains, and I know she thinks it's her fault, 'cause I've heard her talking to his picture when she thought I was asleep. 'Ah, Robert,' she says sometimes, with her voice all trembly like, 'have I condemned you—'"

I found my voice to stop her confidences, even as she herself faltered, her cheeks flushing hotly, her eyes holding a shamed look.

"You mustn't—" I began, but her impetuous words drowned mine.

"Oh, Auntie Madge, I forgot!" she said distressedly. "That is something mother doesn't know I know. I ought not to tell it even to you."

"He Never Played with Me."

"You haven't really told me anything yet, dear," I said reassuringly, "and we'll forget all about it. I shouldn't have asked you the question. But I agree with you in wishing Uncle Robert were here. Perhaps he may come down soon."

"I'm afraid not." Her voice was doleful. "I ask about his coming a lot for I love him so, you know."

She paused and I nodded assent, for, indeed, I did know the intense affection which the imaginative child lavished upon the brilliant artist, whose love for her mother, as much as the remembrance of his lost years, kept him a recluse in the Catskill mountains when laurels and artistic triumph were his for the taking in the world's metropolis.

"But mother always says he's so busy that I mustn't expect to see him hardly ever until I am a big, big girl. But oh Auntie Madge, I want him so now! All the other girls I know have fathers, except me. You know I had one, and he's dead, but do you know—" her voice sank to an awed whisper—"I don't think he ever liked me very much. He never played with me or took me places the way Elizabeth Gray's father does and he didn't come to see my grandmother and me very much. She used to cry about it, poor Granzie."

A Temptation.

I had no compunctions in listening to this phase of the excited child's outpourings, for it was a familiar story to me, one which I had shared with Lillian in the days when Tom Morton, the man who had dragged her through purgatory, was keeping her child from her. And my heart ached for Marion and for the lonely man who waited only the word to lavish on her all the starved fatherhood of a royal heart. It ached most of all for Lillian denying herself the love of her girlhood and of her middle age, putting away from her the adoration, the protecting tenderness which Robert Savarin only waited her word to give her, because she feared the publicity for Marion of the divorce from Harry Underwood which must precede any marriage of hers.

Marion crept back into my arms, lifting her flower-like face to mine.

"Do you suppose, Auntie Madge," she whispered, "that it would be all right for me to write to Uncle Robert, all by myself, and tell him that mother needs him, that you're afraid she's going to be ill? He made me promise once that if ever I found out she needed him I would let him know."

I struggled for a minute with the temptation to give an unqualified assent to the child's entreaty. But I knew that I dared not do it unless it was a question of life and death with Lillian. She is not a woman in whose affairs one can meddle with impunity.

"I am afraid not, sweetheart," I said reluctantly. "Mother knows best, you know. But I'll keep watch over her for you, and when I think it is right to do it I will tell you. Come, get on your frock now."

Her eyes, large and lustrous, looked steadily at me for a moment with the gravity and keenness of an adult, then she turned toward the bed where her frock lay.

"But I do wish mother would marry Uncle Robert, so I could have a really truly father like other girls," she said with a rebellious sign.

And I echoed her wish in my heart.

THE SHAMROCK :: By Juanita Hamel

JUST a bit of "green for luck," think some. To others the shamrock means St. Patrick, whose birthday is celebrated tomorrow. Then, we recall the story of how he explained the Trinity with the aid of this trefoil. But to still others the shamrock means Ireland, the home of well-loved ancestors. And to others still the shamrock is an emblem of love—a little gift of adoration and HOPE.

THREE-MINUTE JOURNEYS

Where the Baby's Cradle Is Hung Up High in a Tree Top

By TEMPLE MANNING

THE dangers that attend life in the open and in the poorly constructed villages which house the savages and the semi-civilized seem not to be a part of the thoughts of those who half-humorously wish they could "go back to nature." That these dangers are very real is evidenced by the fact that many a native of India suddenly disappears, never to be heard of again, and that the Congo savage also is a prey to prowling animals, sometimes meeting his death as suddenly.

The tigers and lions of eastern lands are no more destructive of human life than their relatives in South America. And in South America and Central America there are added the hazards of great snakes. In nearly all these lands the danger from crocodiles and other water menaces is great. Even in the South Seas—those fabled isles of peace and plenty, love and ease—the menace of the shark and the danger of the octopi are to be reckoned with each day.

Little wonder, then, that in some especially hazardous sections where the aborigines still live, that old men and old women are rare. Indeed, the wonder is that these people who have such crude weapons with which to defend themselves, who live in such frail houses and fish from boats described as veritable eggshells, should be able to live even to manhood.

The struggle of the little people is especially hard. Unlike the young of the animals against whom they contend for life in the jungle, they cannot walk a few days after they are born. For a comparatively long period—though in comparison with the children we know they are most precocious—these savage children must be watched every moment or otherwise safeguarded lest they meet death from a wild animal.

Our illustration shows how the mothers and fathers of one savage tribe in Borneo protect their babies. So commonly dangerous are the wild boars, the boa-constrictors, the scorpions and crocodiles that baby is placed in a net which is hung between high trees, high enough above the earth to be above danger. And yet deaths of babies from animals is pitifully frequent. It is said that crocodiles are the most common snatchers of babies in these lands where life is always a battle against death.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON

Author of "Mrs. Norton's Cook Book"

Five Ways to Make the Most of a "Chicken Dinner."

THE lure of the chicken dinner is hard to resist no matter where it is offered to chicken lovers. A home chicken dinner is always considered a real treat. Most mothers' chicken dinners are as pleasant a memory to their children as are their apple pies.

Youth, in both chicken and fowl, should be the first consideration in their selection, except in the case of the capon—who defies age to dry the juices from his flesh or to make his sinews callous to the insinuating edge of a sharp carving knife. In choosing chickens or fowls those having deep breasts, short bodies, bright combs, yellow legs and clean white or yellow skin will yield the best satisfaction. In boiling fowls for salad or other uses, put a veal knuckle, an onion celery, a bunch of sweet herbs, parsley and a carrot in with the chicken. When the chicken is cooked and removed, simmer down the liquor and strain and clarify it for bouillon. If the chicken is boned at once, the bones and trimmings may be added to the liquor as it boils down.

Chicken Cutlets.

Chop enough cold boiled chicken to make two full-sized cupfuls and add a grated onion, pepper, salt, a beaten egg, a quarter of a cupful of crumbs and a quarter of a cupful of heavy cream sauce. Shape into cutlets, dip in egg and fine crumbs and fry in hot fat. Drain when done and serve with cream sauce or smooth tomato sauce. Peas, mashed potato and fried apples may be served with the cutlets. Garnish with fresh cress.

Chicken a la Poulette.

Chop enough cold boiled chicken, coarsely, to make two cupfuls. Season it and add a small can of mushrooms that have been drained and sauted in a little butter. Prepare a cupful of rich cream sauce and add the chicken mixture. When hot, pour over toast slices on a hot platter, and garnish with sprays of parsley and potato puffs. Boiled cauliflower with butter sauce and celery are suitable accompaniments to chicken thus prepared.

Chicken a la Creole.

Mince enough cold boiled chicken to make two cupfuls. Mince a Spanish onion and two sweet peppers with two stalks of celery and fry them in a generous lump of butter until they are done clear, but not brown. Turn in a small can of tomatoes or use two large, fresh ones cut up, and cook gently for 15 minutes. Add a tablespoonful of sugar, pepper and salt to taste, then put in the chicken, dredge lightly with flour and cook until hot. Have ready some boiled rice and heap it on a hot platter, then turn the Creole over it, garnish with stuffed peppers and serve with Maryland sweet potatoes.

Country Fried or Smothered Chicken

Select, clean and joint a good chicken weigh about four pounds. The chicken should be singed, then washed carefully in lukewarm water with a little brush, before it is cut up. Lay the chicken in a large frying pan, putting a half-cupful of butter or any good fat in the centre, then covering all with clean cold water. Cover the pan and let the contents cook slowly for a half-hour. When it begins to brown turn the pieces and watch that they do not burn, but brown evenly. Serve on toast garnished with fresh cress. If desired, a good brown gravy can be made and served with the chicken, using the foundation of fat for its making left in the frying pan. Macaroni and cheese, baked sweet potatoes and stewed celery may accompany this chicken dish.

Curried Chicken.

Boil, after careful preparation, one chicken weighing five pounds, and when cool enough strip the meat from the bones. Put the bones into a saucepan with a pint of the chicken liquor, a small can of tomatoes, a bunch of soup greens, a pepper and a large onion. Add pepper, salt, a teaspoonful of curry powder and a tablespoonful of sugar and cook all slowly for half an hour—or longer if the liquid does not boil away too fast—then strain and set aside to cool. When cold, skim off the grease. Heat, thicken to the consistency of cold honey, and add the chicken. Let this stand at the back of the stove to season for an hour, but not to cook, then serve turned over a mound of hot, freshly boiled rice. Garnish with cress. String beans, baked potatoes and celery may properly be served with this chicken dinner.

Some Tonics for the Hair Beauty Seekers May Prepare

By LUCREZIA BORI

The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

LUCREZIA BORI

VERY often in the spring you are distressed to find that your hair is losing its sheen, and that it is coming out quite badly. Now, of course, there may be various reasons for this, and if your physical condition is not up to par you should consult your family physician.

However, if the poor condition of your hair is caused by a lack of care you can do much to restore its original beauty. Perhaps you have used your curling irons too freely and simply burnt the life out of your hair. Unless curling irons are used with great care much harm results. If your hair is such that you must wave it a little, never apply the iron when it is too hot.

The dryness of your hair may result from a lack of natural oil in your scalp. Or it may be that you spend much of your time where the temperature of the air is too dry. Whatever the cause, what you now require is nourishment for the roots of your hair.

One of the home tonics is kerosene. It is decidedly stimulating to the roots and the scalp, and promotes the growth of the hair. Some people object to its odor, which is not pleasant to say the least. When this is so, you will find that vaseline may be substituted with good results. Although it is a sticky substance, yet when carefully rubbed into the scalp it is very readily absorbed, for the heat of the head tends to liquadize it.

In putting vaseline on the scalp, care should be taken to prevent the hair getting covered with it. This may be avoided if you will take your hair and divide it into small strands and rub the vaseline along the parts that are thus made.

There are, of course, many other tonics that are more elaborate in their preparation, and certain people seem to prefer them. The following is one of the best:

Tonic for Dry Hair.

Sweet almond oil	1½ ounces
Oil of rosemary	½ ounce
Oil of cinnamon	17 drops

Mix these ingredients well, and massage into the scalp with your fingertips every night if your scalp is very dry, or every second night if its condition is not so bad.

Sweet almond oil is particularly good for the hair. Castor oil is also excellent, but in using these oils it is best to combine them with some other ingredients. The following is a particularly good tonic.

A Kefreshing Hair Tonic.

Bergamot	2 drams
Triple rose extract	1 dram
Oil of lemon	1 dram
Oil of rosemary	½ ounce
Oil of thyme	½ ounce
Burdock root	2 ounces
Sweet almond oil	½ pint

Put the burdock root into the oil in a stone jar, which must be kept warm for forty-eight hours. Strain this mixture and add the other ingredients. When applying, always be sure to divide your hair so that the partings will permit you to reach the roots of your scalp quite easily.

Another good tonic that may be made with almond oil as a foundation requires one and one eighth ounces of coarsely powdered alkanet root combined with half a pint of the almond oil. It must be kept in a warm place until the oil takes on a deep red color. Several days may be required for this. Then the following ingredients must be added:

Oil of cloves	2½ grains
Oil of mace	9½ grains
Oil of rose	9½ grains
Oil of cinnamon	½ dram
Musk	7 grains

This should be applied in the way already suggested for the application of other tonics. By keeping up such treatments regularly and taking care always to see that your hair is smoothly brushed out after you have massaged your scalp, you will soon be pleased to discover new hairs as well as the return of the lustre that makes your hair so beautiful.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By ANNIE LAURIE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am desperately in love with four nice, good-looking boys, all of about the same age. Every one of them has proposed to me, and I have asked them to wait three days for my answer.

Now, dear Annie Laurie, I'm simply crazy over all of them, and can't decide which to take. I am 18 years old already, and am getting older and uglier every day, and I am afraid if I don't hurry and take one I'll never have such a chance again. What would you do in a case like this?

ANNIE.

ANNIE: In a case like yours I should wait until time and experience gave me a little good common sense. How can you love four boys all at one time? Doesn't your letter look absurd now that you see it in print?

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I have never come to you for advice before. I am a young girl of 18 and my trouble is that I love a boy of about my own age. Do you think he loves me? He has told me so several times. He becomes angry every time I speak to other boys. He has asked me to kiss him several times and I refused every time except on it, and then I was only 10. He has been begging me to kiss him again, but I have refused every time since. He seems to think more of me because I kissed him, and tells me that he thinks I ought to kiss him and no other boy. I tell him he will not think well of me if I do, and he gets angry.

Dear Annie Laurie, do you think I should kiss him?

R. M. R.: You should not kiss him. 2—Some do. 3—Not always. 4—The boy is introduced to the girl. 5—Yes. 6—No. 7—It is not proper. 8—I do not know. 9—It would be bad behavior if you spoke to him at all unless you have an introduction to him. 10—I do not know. She should not. 11—It depends on what state a girl lives in. 12—I do not know.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her, in care of this office.

2—Do you think a boy loves a girl when he is jealous?

3—Do you think it makes a boy hate a girl when she tells him she is jealous of him?

4—Is it right for a boy to be introduced to a girl or a girl to be introduced to the boy?

5—What should a girl say when a boy asks her to marry him, when she wishes to do so?

6—Is it wrong for a girl to sit between two boys in church?

7—Is it wrong for a girl to ask a boy to go places with her?

8—When a boy smiles at a girl does he want to talk to her?

9—Would it be wrong for me to speak to him first?

10—When a boy winks at a girl what does he mean? And should she wink back?

11—Could your parents get you back, if you leave home at the age of 18?

YOUR HEALTH

Whooping-Cough Dangers How You May Escape Them

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Commissioner of Health, New York City

DR. COPELAND

SOME diseases are so common that we are inclined to laugh at them. What "everybody has to have" isn't considered important.

Too many laugh at mumps and measles and whooping-cough. Disregarding for the time being mumps and measles, we ought not to poke fun at whooping-cough. This is really a serious disease.

One reason why whooping-cough is dangerous is because it often leaves the lungs in bad condition. It makes them the ready victim of secondary disease. Pneumonia, bronchitis and tuberculosis are not far behind the neglected whooping-cough patient.

It is natural to think of whooping-cough as exclusively a disease of childhood. As a matter of fact, some of the worst cases of this disease I ever saw have been in grown persons. When it attacks an old person the condition must be viewed with genuine apprehension.

In Epidemic Form.

We are always disturbed over the mere mention of the word epidemic. Whooping-cough appears usually in epidemic form. It may sweep through a school and take every susceptible person.

Almost every winter in each community there will be a more or less serious invasion of the schools by this disease. It is not uncommon to have measles first and then an epidemic of whooping-cough, or vice versa.

Whooping-cough is believed to be due to a germ called the "bacillus pertussis." It is carried by the discharges of the throat and lungs.

The contagion may be transmitted by infected persons or by infected cats and dogs. Here is one disease that domestic animals may carry. A cat petted by one little victim may get whooping-cough and transmit it to another child who fondles "pussy."

The discharges coughed into the atmosphere or conveyed on soiled linen, may give the disease to another. Fourteen days is the usual time that elapses between exposure and the beginning of the attack.

Whooping-cough in the beginning seems like an ordinary cold. The nose runs and there may be some hoarseness and a loose cough. This stage lasts a week or two.

Then the "whooping" begins. There is a spasmodic cough, followed by a deep, crowing intake of air. These attacks are violent and prolonged. The child feels as if he would die and is greatly frightened at times. Vomiting may follow an attack of coughing.

Loss of food and broken rest result in loss of flesh and a general run-down condition. This stage lasts about a month.

Runs Its Course.

The final period may be prolonged for several weeks. In this, there are occasional coughing spells and once in a while a slight "whoop."

The disease invariably runs its regular course, but sensible care will lessen the severity of the paroxysms and maintain general health. Fresh air and sunshine are the great essentials. Select the sunniest room and have it freely ventilated. Unless there be fever or some obvious reason for keeping him in bed, let the child play about. In good weather bundle him up and let him play out-of-doors.

The victim should be kept away from other children until the regular whooping spells have stopped. The patient should be taught to protect his nose and mouth while coughing, catching in his own handkerchief all the dangerous droplets of infection.

Don't fail to watch the little patient, and unless he begins to improve in health and flesh after the second stage, have him carefully examined by your doctor. This cough, like every other cough, must not be neglected. Don't forget the lurking dangers to the lungs.

Some simple cough remedy, such as honey and lemon, may be soothing, but the medical treatment should be conducted by your doctor.

Answers to Health Questions

H. B. K. Q—I am a man 30 years of age, suffering from pains under my nose. I also have headaches almost every day, and before I get them everything gets dark in front of me. Will you kindly advise me?

A—Consult your doctor for a physical examination and also have your eyes examined. If constipated, correct your diet. Eat simple foods and take bran muffins and stewed fruits for breakfast. Try taking a tablespoonful of mineral oil each night, three hours after eating.

J. R. S. Q—Is cancer either contagious or infectious, and if either, what is necessary for it to be communicated?

A—It is probably infectious, but the cause is still cloaked in mystery.

L. M. M. Q—I am a young girl, 21, and for about ten years have been troubled with palpitation of the heart after eating my meals, especially when eating cake or chocolate. Kindly advise me.

A—You probably have intestinal indigestion. Eat simple, well-cooked food with bran muffins and stewed fruits for breakfast. Avoid foods rich in fats and sugars. Take mineral oil, one tablespoonful each night, three hours after eating.

* * *

S. D. Q—What is good for a scalp which is dry and full of dandruff?

A—For dry hair apply a little of the following:

Chloral hydrate	1¼ drachms
Castor oil	1¼ drachms
Water	4 ounces

For dandruff:

Tincture cantharides	40 drops
Spirit of rosemary	3 ounces
Spirit of lavender	8 ounces

When used for dandruff see that you take frequent shampoos with good soap and water.

A CONSTANT READER. Q—I believe I have scabies. I notice you suggest using hyposulphite of soda. I would be grateful if you would tell me in what form it is used. How is it applied?

A—In the query you refer to the hyposulphite of soda, one tablespoonful to a quart of water, for the bath, was suggested as a relief from the itching. You should have treatment for the scabies. See your doctor for a thorough examination.

Today's Fashion

By VERA WINSTON

This Frilly Evening Wrap Is All of Brown Lace and Chiffon.

LACE WRAPS or those fabricated from the sheerest fabrics are being shown in fascinating styles. Those evolved from cobwebby chiffons are sometimes elaborated with tinsel embroideries, while others show novel collars and cuffs of brightly colored coque.

This model is fashioned from brown chiffon which is overhung with strings of scintillating beads. Flaring from the lower edges of the beaded cape are two lace ruffles. These are wired so that there is no fear of them losing their smartness. Similar ruffles are set about the neck. These, too, are wired and make a pleasing frame for the face.

Good Night Stories

By Blanche Silver

Illustrated by Neva Harrison

DORIS AND THE QUEER LITTLE SAILOR WITHOUT WINGS.

DORIS dodged as the little black creature sailing through the air almost touched her nose.

"How funny!" mused Doris aloud. "That looked like a spider, but who ever heard of a spider flying?"

A silken thread floated across her face, and Doris laughed merrily. "I do believe it was, for this is a spider web as sure as I'm alive!"

"Must have been," laughed a cheery voice, and Squeedee, the elfin from Joyland, hopped up from the grasses at Doris's feet. "Hello there, Doris! I waited as long as I could for you to wish for me, then I came along without an invitation."

"Well, I was just going to wish for you," laughed Doris. "Was that a spider flying through the air?"

"Of course it was, for Mrs. Spider is busy early this morning," replied Squeedee, waving his hand to the field black spot which had settled on a weed to rest. "Hello there, Mrs. Spider, wait for us!" and before Doris knew what she was about she found herself sailing through the air beside the elfin.

"Well," laughed Mrs. Spider after Squeedee had introduced her to Doris, "I didn't see you until I almost ran into you. I'm sorry if I frightened you."

"Indeed you didn't frighten me," laughed Doris, shaking Mrs. Spider's hand. "But I never knew before that spiders had wings."

"Wings!" exclaimed Mrs. Spider. "Who said I had wings? Why, my dear, spiders never have wings."

"They don't need them," said Squeedee. "I guess Mrs. Spider is about the only one of the meadow folks who can fly without wings."

"My goodness!" laughed Doris. "How in the world do you do it? I always thought insects had to have wings to be able to fly."

"Well," replied Mrs. Spider, lifting out her pincer-like feelers, which Doris saw she carried folded back between her teeth when not in use, "I guess Mother Nature felt sorry for us and gave us the gift without the wings. You see, she made us soft-bodied, exposed to every attack, and easily crushed. We can't run very fast, or jump very quickly. So she felt she must make up to us some way I guess, and she gave us two things.

"I'm Sorry if I Frightened You."

"Both of them are fluids. One is a poison that in time of trouble we can force down through these fangs and poison an enemy. The other fluid really is a sort of mucilage, which, when drawn out of my spinneret, hardens when it comes in contact with the air. This becomes the silken thread which you felt on your face a few minutes ago. It not only serves as a flying line for me, but I use it for lining nests and egg cocoons. You see, it's done this way," and Mrs. Spider, raising herself on her tiptoes, turned her body up with her face toward the wind and opened her little spinneret.

Doris saw a silken thread blow out to the length of about three yards, and the wind carried Mrs. Spider and her silken line away from the weed on which she was sitting.

Doris saw her turn around after she had cleared the weed and catch hold of the silken line just as nicely as could be.

Doris watched the queer little sailor until she disappeared. And, when she turned around to speak to Squeedee she found he, too, had disappeared.

Gathering up her hat she ran into the house to tell mama what she had seen and heard.

To-morrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

THURSDAY, MARCH 17.

St. Patrick's Day should be an eventful and interesting day, according to the testimonies of the stars. These point to sudden and radical change, removal or journey, which should be turned to good account if managed carefully. This does not apply to those in employment, who should take care not to put their positions in jeopardy, as these are under a threatening stellar rule. In all mercantile and professional affairs, independently assumed, there should be splendid success, under the propitious influence of Mercury trine Moon. Mars also favoring these should feel his strong impetus and stimulus. Venus should be responsible for a similar active and flourishing condition in domestic, social and romantic affairs.

Those whose birthday it is should expect an interesting and successful year. Those in employment should be cautious. A child born on this day may be active, adventurous, accomplished, clever and should be successful in life.

American

ELYRIA, March 16—A smashing LYRIA, March 16—A smashing melodrama, threaded with a love interest that adds to rather than detracts from the dramatic strength of its situations is "A Thousand to One," J. Parker Read, Jr.'s production starring two-fisted Hobart oBsworth, which shows at the American theatre today, tomorrow, Friday and Saturday.

Bosworth is said to excel in this production his past remarkable performance in such screen successes as "Behind the Door" and "Below the Surface" "A Thousand to One" is Mr. Read's second picture for Associated Producers.

William Newlands, man-about-town, sportsman and business man finds himself $60,000 in debt, due to having misused funds entrusted to him. Jimmie Munro his friend and evil genius, has been mostly responsible for geting him into the fix. At this juncture, when Newlands is facing prison and disgrace a letter brings news that an old friend of his father has died in Hawaii, and that the daughter of this friend, Beatrice, is being committed to Newland's care and is sailing even now for San Francisco where Newlands lives The letter divulges that the girl has $100,000 in her own right

Newlands does not relish the idea of being a guardian, but Munro, from the start, conceives the idea of their getting hold of the girl's money He subtly intmates that a false marriage would be the most convenient method Newland's better instincts rebel against this, particularly after he has met the girl, to whom he is greatly attracted Newlands enters into a pretended marriage with the girl, obtains her securities and starts on a honeymoon trip for the North with her.

Enroute the train is wrecked Newlands, hit by a falling piece of wreckage, is unconscious for hours after wandering dazedly away from the wreck Beatrice, by an improvised tourniquet, saves the life of Steven Crawford, an engineer, also hurt in the wreck She is found unconscious beside him by Crawford's men and taken with him to his mine, as the men suppose she is Crawford's wife. When she regains consciousness, she dreads to chance meeting Newlands in whom she is disillusioned, and finding that Crawford needs skillful nursing to save his life, she stays on at the mine, presumably as Crawford's wife Newlands, meanwhile, learning that he has been reported killed in the wreck, has a complete revulsion of feeling and determines to stay out of Beatrice's life, wherever she is, and to make a new man of himself

Newlands is one of the men brought to Crawford's mine by prospect of bigger pay He is completely changed in appearance, due to toil and growth of a beard, but finding that Beatrice is happy in her assumed charge of the helpless Crawford, he keeps out of her way and determines to work for her happiness, since he thinks her in love with Crawford.

Munroe, seeking his share of the booty, turns up at the mine and again works to disintegrate Newlands' character. By working on Newland's passions, telling him that he is a fool to be working for Crawford so that he, Crawford, can win Beatrice, Munroe almost succeeds in making Newlands double-cross Crawford.

In a smashing climax, Newlands' true manhood reasserts itself and after a terrific fight in the depths of the mine, he drives the strikers back to work. That afternoon gold is struck, a bonanza. Then, when Newlands is about to go, Beatrice learns his identity and convinces him that it is he whom she has loved all through these trying days

"The Kid"

ELYRIA, March 15—Medical authorities are commencing to recognize the danger of the flood of literature which has come into the market on the subject of the care of babies The danger is not in the informaton contained in the many volumes but in the variable ways in which beneficial results are obtained.

In attempting to get the history of the exposure he got this answer from the anxious young mother

"My own mother gave me one book and my mother-in-law another and both of them insisted upon the importance of fresh air for the baby while he was being bathed. One said to overheat the room and open the windows The other one said to open the windows and then permit the room to come back to normal temperature I do wish somebody would write a book about what not to do instead of so many things to do"

Charlie Chaplin, the most famous screen comedian probably never heard this, but he has answered it in an entirey unexpected way by a series of the most comical scenes he ever put into a picture in the things he does in raising his foster son in "The Kid." MADAGASCAR IS RICH IN ORE OF RADIUM

(By International News Service)

PARIS, March 16.—Following the Paris municipal council's intention of buying two gramms of radium, Monsieur Lacroix, secretary of the French academy of Sciences, says that the island of Madagascar, "little known to treasure seekers," is properly exploited would yield annually a quantity of radium sufficient for the needs of France.

M. Lacroix discovered rich minerals in Madagascar years ago, and it is in these minerals, which he has named "betafites" on account of the proximity of the town of Beato, that he first found radium. On returning to Paris nobody would believe M. Lecroix's report on his discovery, and it was not until 1912 that serious efforts were made to extract minerals from the island. In that year 22 pounds of mineral were extracted and in 1917 the amount of mineral extracted totalled more than seven tons The quantity of radium found in these minerals is irregular, and taking the unity of a milligramme per ton the radium extracted realized 200 francs per unity. There are now in France factories which refine these minerals and each gramme of the precious salt is today worth about 1,000,000 francs, and an active propaganda service is to be started to interest treasure seekers in the mineral wealth of France's island colony.

GOMPERS SAYS PACKERS ARE FOOLING PEOPLE

WASHINGTON, March 16—Bitter criticism was voiced by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, against the plan announced by big packing companies in Chicago to allow their employes a voice in the management of its industries

"It is in keeping," said Gompers "with the practice of years—on the one hand, to take advantage of their employes, and on the other hand to impose on the credulity of the public

"The packers bluntly talk of service to the public when their only thought has been to fleece the public"

BROKERS MUST NOT USE INVESTMENT BANKERS

COLUMBUS, March 16 -Brokers in Ohio must not use the term "investment bankers," according to a decision announced today by the state supreme court

The supreme judge, sustaining the judgment of the Cuyahoga Co appellate court, held that former state banking superintendent Pontius was correct in his ruling ordering Otis and company, Cleveland, to discontinue use of the words, "investment bankers," on letter heads and stationery

Pontius held that such use constituted a violation of the state banking code which prohibits the use of the words "bank," banker," "banking," or "trust" by any person firm, or corporation, not doing a deposit business, nor subject to regulation by the state banking department.

HOW MUCH TOBACCO WILL MY HEART STAND

A Question Vital to Every Man Who Smokes or Chews

IT MAY COST A PRECIOUS LIFE TO FIND OUT BY EXPERIMENT.

The heart of every user of tobacco bears a double burden It does its alloted task and then fights nicotine for supremacy. As long as the heart wins he lives; when it loses he dies, but before the final victory of nicotine you pass through many stages of decline and decay and suffer many pangs. Hearts are like human being—some are stronger than others; therefore, some hearts will stand more tobacco than others, but there is a limit to what any heart can stand The man who puts this additional strain on his heart a dozen times a day by smoking cigarettes, a pipe or cigars—or chewing tobacco—is taking a madman's chance with health and life to lose and nothing to win but the chance that he may not lose them. He is indulging in a costly habit at the expense of precious health. Ask any doctor anywhere, and he will tell you that using tobacco is injurious and that it is far better to quit the habit than to experiment to find how much tobacco your heart will stand without serious results.

But the thought of quitting is unpleasant to most men—even to those who know that tobacco injures them—and to really quit takes more will-power than they have, and causes more suffering than they can voluntarily endure. To quit the habit make it easy for yourself by getting Nicotol tablets and take them as directed The habit really suits you, and its departure is a pleasure equal to its indulgence.

If you want to know how much easier it is to quit the habit with Nicotol than without it, go twenty-four hours without tobacco and note what an effort it cost you; then begin using it as usual and take Nicotol tablets At the end of a week discontinue smoking or chewing for a day, and it is probable you will have no desire to resume. At least your desire will be greatly diminished, and another week or two should make it not only possible, but a pleasure to quit.

Note: Dr. Connor, formerly of John Hopkins Hospital, under whose advice Nicotol has often been used, said when this statement was shown to him: "I have known Nicotol to conquer the tobacco habit in less than ten days' time, and I can therefore recommend it highly" When the doctor's statement was shown he said: "Nicotol is truly a wonderful remedy for the tobacco habit, way ahead of anything we have ever sold before We are authorized by the manufacturers to return the money to every dissatisfied customer, and we would not permit the use of our name unless the remedy possessed unusual merit." Nicotol is sold in this city under an iron-clad money-back guarantee by all up-to-date druggists, including C. C Bowers—Advt. 3-16, 4-13

PARLIAMENT MEMBER SAYS PAY IS SMALL

(By International News Service)

LONDON, March 16—Interesting evidence on how inadaquate the average Member of Parliament's salary is if he is without a private income was put before the select committee set up to inquire into members' expenses by Mr. Dan Irving, M P, for Burnley

"I reckon," said Mr Irving, "that on an average I spent in London, after allowing for the time that I am away, $14 a week, which inculdes postage, street car fares, food in the house and a single room in which to live

Mr Irving said the $1,600 salary is now his only regular income He had to give up his regular occupation when he became an M P.

Out of this he pays $420 a year for his third class railroad fare

He has to keep two homes, one in Burnley, where his family live, and the other in London, where he himself resides

"To keep up these two homes," he said, "with my railroad fare brings my earnings up to $1,480—not a cent for clothing, either for myself or my wife One does not really live on the $1,600 a year. I cannot do it

"The only possible way that I could do it at all would be to abandon going home, except at the end of the session, and to give up my railroad pass.

Struggle to Live.

"I have to devote time, attention and study to other methods of increasing my income, otherwise I could not possibly live.

"I feel," went on Mr. Irving, "sometimes a little sense of humiliation in mixing with my fellows, when I have to scan every item which I am called upon to spend when in company with other men of reasonable means, a sense of humiliation, because I appear to be op I are when other than mean not say extravagant, but able to act differently"

All throughout the war he had been sitting on public bodies "raising everyone's wages except my own he complained "and I no sooner escape from that and come here than I am faced with the same situation myself"

After some diliberation the committee recommended

No charge in M P's salaries, but that no income tax should be charged on the salary

That M P's should have free firstclass railroad passes between London and their constituencies—but not their homes

LORAIN SOCIETY PREPARES FOR AFTER LENT

LORAIN, March 16.—After Lent comes Easter and soon the happy bride will be busily preparing for her wedding morn. In a short time the happy Easter time will be with us all, all the churches will be once again beautifully decorated with an abundance of flowers, and again the chimes will begin to peal.

Think how Easter is welcomed, from the tiniest child to the adult.

With Easter comes the new season of the year, those seasons which mean such a great deal to every one. We will soon forget about the cold snowy and frosty days and be prepared to enjoy the beautiful sunshine which is in store for us all. Only a few more days and Lent will be at an end and those who have deprived themselves of pleasures will soon be their normal selves. Festivals, parties and every kind of entertainment is being gayly planned for this holiday. The busy housewife is shopping and is determined to be prepared in good time for this occasion, and the children anxiously await their surprise gifts.

BOY SCOUTS WILL GIVE ENTERTAINMENT MARCH 25.

The president and vice-president were absent, and the treasurer, Mrs Bedding opened the meeting. During the business an after Easter tea was decided upon, to be given at Mrs. Hageman's home April 7th. The business meeting then adjourned and a delightful program was given. Mrs Woodward gave a very interesting paper on "The Indian Immigrant." Dorothy Smith had a paper on the "Negro and Liberia," which was also very interesting. Vocal solos were given by the following: Dorothy Smith, Mrs. Mosely and Miss Cromwell who were accompanied by Miss Spademan.

LORAIN MILL MEN TO HAVE PARTY TONIGHT

Social Gatherings for National Tube Plant Employes by the Official Prove Most Enjoyable — Two Entertainments Staged Weekly in Future

LORAIN, March 16—What promises to be one of the largest and most enjoyable affairs of its kind will be held tonight in the Y. M. C. A. building, South Lorain, when more than 400 pipe mill men of the National Tube Co plant and their wives and friends will hold an entertainment and dance. They will be the guests of the company.

The program will include musical recitations and various other features of entertainment, followed with refreshments and the evening festivities closing with a dance. The music will be furnished by the pipe mill men's orchestra. During the evening two basket ball and cage ball teams of that department of the plant will play.

The social affairs that were begun some time ago by the officials of the tube company for their thousands of employes have proved so enjoyable and largely attended that it has become necessary to give them twice a week instead of once a week, that all the men of the various departments may have an opportunity to attend with their wives.

During the past few weeks each of the social gatherings have been attended by more than an average of 400 persons.

The affairs have proved to be most pleasing in every way and have brought about a closer and more friendly communionship between the men and their wives.

Beginning this week two entertainments will be given each week, on Monday and Wednesday nights. The affair last Monday was attended by more than 500 men and their wives.

"PASSION PLAY" PICTURES TO BE GIVEN AT FIRST M. E. CHURCH

LORAIN March 16.—As an appropriate service beginning Passion Week the Rev C. H Hanger of the First Methodist church will give the exact photographs of the "Passion Play" on next Sunday evening at 7:30 as it is given at Oberammergau every ten years. The pictures will bring this most wonderful play which thousands of tourists travel to see every ten years right to our door. Many of the characters and their surroundings will be described also in pictures showing the simple devoted life of these villagers of Oberammergan. The circumstances under which the "Passion Play" was produced are of much interest to those who have seen as well as those who will see this marvelous play. In 1633 when the black plague or perhaps the Bubonic plague threatened to blot out the inhabitants of the village of Oberammergan, the chief head of the village made a vow if they might be spared they would present "The Tragedy of the Suffering and Death of Jesus Christ" every ten years thereafter. The records have it, that on the very day of the vow the contagion began to disappear, and although many were infected, not another death occurred, and not another person got the disease. The ambition of the children of the village is to be able to take the leading parts in the play, such as Christus or Judas or Mary, the mother of Jesus. Often they may be seen on the playground performing the "Crucifixion" scene, playing the parts in a very commendable manner. Auton Lang, who plays the part of Christus is a potter in trade and is often called out of his pottery schop by tourists to pose for a picture. The photographs are beautifully colored and are taken from the characters performing in the last production of the Passion Play. Next to a visit to Oberammergan will be the seeing of those pictures next Sunday night. It is free to the public.

DOLLY DIMPLES

LORAIN, March 16.—Dear Annie Laurie: Do you think it ever proper for a girl to use powder or rouge; If so, will you kindly tell me a few good brands? I have dark brown hair, dark blue eyes, a ruddy complexion and a full face. Will you please tell me some colors in which I would look well? Yours sincerely, Dolly Dimples.

It is not necessary for you to use rouge, if as you state, you have a "ruddy" complexion. A little powder would not be harmful. There are such a number of good brands on the market that it is hard to select one. I would advise that you do not use white powder—but cream.

Copen, brown, pink and green are colors that would correspond with your complexion.

THRONGS OF PEOPLE ATTENDED STYLE SHOW AT RIALTO THEATER

ELYRIA, March 16.—Packed to the doors at every performance. So great was the crowd of people who visited the Style Show yesterday at the Rialto theater. The stage had been made into a salon, with furniture, lamps, rugs and attractive stage decorations loaned by the Kenilworth shop of which Miss E. M. Johnston is the proprietor, Allen & Brown, Glade Thomas, the Harry H. Smith Co., and the Wilkins Co. Large and beautiful baskets of flowers were given by the L. C. Hecock Co. A runway had been built so that the models could be seen at close range, and this was covered with handsome rugs. The official announcer of the program was A. L. Werner, himself an example of clothes for the well dressed man, wearing the latest modes in evening clothes, cut away suits and sack suits, all made by the A. L. Werner Tailoring Co. There was special music furnished by Mrs. Chapman's orchestra, and to the latest tuneful melodies, the models appeared in a marvellous assortment of smartly tailored suits, coats of beautiful materials and modish cuts, and dresses both spring and summer for afternoon and evening wear, all from the Elyria stores of the C. H. Merthe Co, the John Lersch & Co., the Style Center, the Fay Co. and Saul's. An umbrella, a fur neckpiece or a chic bag completed the model's costume and as each one came out she made a perfect picture of the season's latest creations. Stunning hats were furnished by Mrs. Clara Reynolds, attractive pieces of jewelry by Barrett, Baron, Burr, Haserodt and Savage, and the shoes, for no costume is complete without smart foot wear, were furnished by Philpott's and the Leader Co. The younger models, showing the very latest for the small girls and Misses came in for their share of applause and they were most attractively dressed in a variety of styles of coats, silk dresses and dancing frocks, smart ginghams, also modish hats and shoes.

To provide entertainment while the models were being dressed, Cleveland's best talent in the song and dance line gave some clever, unique and amusing songs. The Clifford, Schribler and Hastings Trio sang, also Frances Reddy, the newsboy tenor. Not to be excelled as Juvenile entertainers, were Briggs and Killoran, two little ten year old girls, who by their clever dances and catchy songs immediately won the audiences and many encores were demanded

That the public feels indebted to the Better Business club for their untiring efforts and expense in putting on usch a splendid entertainment and giving them an opportunity to see to the very best advantages the unusually handsome exhibit of the Elyria merchants, was evidenced by the throngs of people.

Samuel Squire Presented With Gold Watch at Rotary Club Dinner

ELYRIA, March 16—The Rotary club entertained last night with a sumptuous dinner at the Y. M. C A at which the wives of the members were present and guests to the number of seventy-five. After the meeting, the members adjourned to the New Bank building where the meeting was continued in the beautiful new Colonial room on the third floor.

In appreciation of the efforts expended and the excellent work done by him, Samuel Squire was presented with a finely engraved gold watch with the emblems of the Rotary club beautifully traced on it. The presentation speech was made by Ben Hindman and was thoroughly characteristic of his many qualities. This little remembrance was not only in appreciation of the work Mr. Squire has done for the Elyria Rotarians, but for the wonderful results attained during his office as district governor. The international headquarters highly commended Mr. Squire, saying his work was the best of any accomplished in the twenty-four districts. Mrs. Squire was also made a presentation of an exquisite coffee set, consisting of a coffee urn and sugar and cream bowl, in appreciation of the good work and co-operation she has afforded the club during the past year.

The club is planning for the annual district conference to be held this year in Cleveland on Monday and Tuesday of next week This will be a meeting of much note and it is expected that there will be a large attendance from Elyria. After the meeting the Rotarians and their guests made an effort to see the wonderful style show at the Rialto and the dinner party thus proved a most successful event.

Exchange Club Discusses Pro and Con Yellow Line Franchise

ELYRIA, March 16—The meeting of the Elyria Exchange club held Tuesday noon at the Chamber of Commerce was exceptionally a busy and an interesting one. It was decided at their last meeting to give the matter of granting a 25 year franchise to the Lakeshore Electric Co, due consideration, the committee in charge of this matter is working diligently to bring both sides of the question before the club.

The side as seen from the city's point of view was ably presented by Mayor Jones, who stated his objections as to certain parts of the proposed franchise; these were heard with interest and no doubt will have some bearing upon the final decision taken by the club.

Believing this to be a matter of vital importance to the community as a whole, the Exchange club invited all civic organizations to be represented at a meeting to be held next Thursday, March 17th, at which time the other side of the matter as seen from the view point of the traction company will be heard.

Another new member, J. J. Mosher, carpenter contractor, was present at this meeting; the members expected Mr. Mosher to speak at lenth, but owing to the volume of business to be brought before the club and the time being very limited, the speech given by Mr. Mosher was rather short.

'The Honest Atheist' Subject of First in Series of Lenten Week Addresses by Rev. Richard L. Swain

ELYRIA, March 16.—The observance by the First Congregational church of Holy Week, March 20-25, is to be made exceptional this year by the series of addresses by Dr. Richard La Rue Swain, of Connecticut, whose subjects in order (beginning Sunday afternoon, March 20th, at 4:00 each evening following at 7:30) are "The Honest Atheist," ";How Science Saves Religion," "Man and His Place in the Universe," "Could God Become a Man?" "Losing the Bible to Find It," and "Losing and Finding the Sense of Immortality."

"Who is Dr. Swain?" will be asked by many Dr. Swain is a preacher and teacher—

Who has specialized in the fundamentals of the Christian religion.

Who can interpret religiously the modern man's world and problems.

Who combines with his deep and vital faith the scientific temper and the modern religious viewpoint.

Who has earned the right of religious leadership by virtue of experience in the school of privation and sorrow as well as of scholarly studies

Who has been received with enthusiasm by college and university audiences and church assemblies East and West.

Who appeals to old and young the learned and unlearned, the skeptic and Christian, the conservative and liberal, with a helpful and vitalizing message for all.

Who welcomes questions upon every phase of religious difficulty and upon every perplexity of the personal religious life.

Of Personal Interest

The personal appearance of Dr. Swain is of robust figure, looking as much the educator or executive as preacher, hair turned gray, presence and voice easily commanding the largest assembly, a manner of speaking clear, in everyday, untechnical language, with abundant and apt illustration and frequent flash of humor. He is almost at his best in his quick, clear, frank rejoinders to questions from the floor.

Dr. Swain's last pastorate was in Bridgeport, Conn. where he now makes his home His entire time for four years has been devoted to this highly specialized work, largely in college communities

FEDERATION GIRLS CARD PARTY AT THE Y. W. C. A.

ELYRIA, March 16.—Last evening the Federation Girls of the Y. W C. A. proved their ability as hostesses when a co-ed party was given in the parlors of the Y. W. C. A. Dr. and Mrs. Nicholas acting as chaperons.

A most exciting game of hearts was played, the first award going to Miss Ethel Rothman and the booby won by Miss Lottie Schwartz

After finishing this game a very clever auction was held, each young man being allowed to bid on the eyes of the fair young ladies and paying the price with green shamrocks.

The partners selected in this manner, all marched to the dining room which was beautifully decorated in green crepe paper, candles and shades.

Delicious refreshments were served and the rest of the evening was spent in music. Everyone enjoyed themselves and it is hoped that this will be only the beginning of a series of socials at the Y W. C. A.

This trip was a demonstration of many of the things pertaining to the fire department which the children have been studying about in school, and was certainly a red letter day in their young lives.

MUSIC

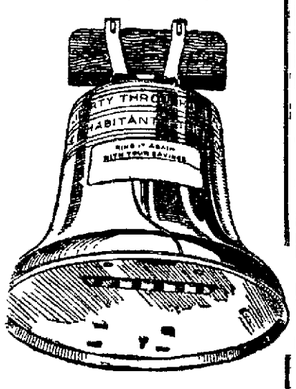

William Wade Hinshaw, president and general manager of the Society of American Singers, of New York, announces an extended tour of a splendid company presenting Mozart's Musical Comedy, "THE IMPRESSARIO," (sub-titled, — "The Wiles of a Prima Donna"), for which a new book was written three years ago by Mr. H. E. Krehbiel, the veteran critic of the New York Tribune and which made an immediate success when presented by the American Singers in New York at the Lyceum Theatre. The projected tour will begin next October and will cover the entire country and Canada, and will mark the beginning of Mr. Hinshaw's fullfillment of his long cherished plan to give opera comique in miniature form with first class artists to music lovers everywhere. This Mozart comedy-opera will be given in full costume of the period of Louis XV, and with attractive scenery and other operatic paraphernalia.

Appearances have already been booked in one hundred cities and towns under the auspices of the affiliated Musical Bureaus, having offices in Boston, Atlanta, Toronto, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Dallas, Boise, Calgary, Auckland, Sydney and London, the head office being in the North American Building, Chicago. The company is being booked through the concert routes and the costumed presentation of the Impressario is to take the place of the usual stereotyped high class concert, and the scenery is so built that it can be set up in any sized stage

The Coit-Alber Bureau of Cleveland has just written Mr. Hinshaw that they are receiving requests for appearances of this company by letter, telegraph and telephone," which proves that the country at large really wants good musical novelties. Mr. Hinshaw says "There is in this comedy-opera joy and recreation for all, even to the "tired business man" who religiously stays away from the usual concerts and recitals of the day. The dialogue is full of smart fun from beginning to end, and the music is the most exquisitely popular of all Mozart's writings. No one needs to be a musician to thoroughly appreciate and enjoy this enchanting bit of "Quint essence of popular music." When the American Singers presented the piece in New York every critic hailed it with delight and praised not only the music but also Mr Krehbiel's sparkling and witty book in highest terms, saying that "There is wit and fun enough in this book to make up a dozen of the usual Broadway Musical Comedies."

A fine All-American cast, headed by Mr. Percy Hemus (as "The Impressario), includes Miss Ruth Miller, Miss Hazel Huntington, Mr. Morton Adkins, Mr. Thomas McGranahan and Miss Gladys Craven

"My wife and I are great advocates of Tanlac now and call it our family medicine," said J .S. McGlone(120 Market St., Akron, O., well-known employe of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

"My wife and I have both been in bad health for a year or more, suffering from stomach trouble. Every time I ate anything I nearly always wished I hadn't touched a bite, for I would turn almost deathly sick at my stomach Even a glass of water upset my stomach and at night I couldn't get any rest hardly and often had terrible nightmares. Dizzy spells struck me at times, and if I couldn't catch hold of something I would fall to the floor.

"My wife had indigestion so bad she couldn't enjoy a single meal. She had little or no appetite, was all run-down and so weak it would nearly break her down trying to do the housework

"We started taking Tanlac at the same time and both of us commenced improving so fast it seemed like a race between us to see which one would get well first. We took four bottles apiece and today we are in the best of health. She can do the housework with ease and looks like a different person. I have the finest kind of an appetite, eat anything I like and feel as spry and healthy as when I was a boy. We are both only too glad to speak a good word for Tanlac It's got the world beat, that's all." Tanlac is sold in Elyria by Adolphus J. Ebert —Advt.

BACKACHE OF WOMEN

The back is often called the mainspring of a woman's life. What can she do, where can she go, so long as that deadly backache saps every particle of her strength and ambition? She cannot walk, she cannot stand, her housework is a burden, or the long hours behind the counter, in the office or factory are crushing. She is miserable The cause in many times some derangement of her system, and backache is a common symptom. Lydia E Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a reliable remedy for backache, as for more than forty years it has been relieving women of America from the ailments which often cause it.—Adv

Everyone knows the call of the Phoebe bird They belong to the great family of fly-catchers Dull, grey plumage, but easily distinguished by their dark heads and backs, and lighter grey underneath, and their habit of continually flirting their tails

They are friendly and trusting, and a very common bird in Ohio, seeming to love the habitation of man, rather than the forest. A favorite nesting site for the Phoebe, is on the stone work of a low bridge, over the running water The nest is composed chiefly of mud and moss, lined with grass and feathers. But baby birds must be very careful, when leaving the nest, or they will drop into the water and be drowned.

Phoebes live almost entirely on insects; especially the numerous species of weevil, which destroy such great quantities of grain

They are always very welcome in the spring, and seem reluctant to leave fo rtheir winter home which is below latitude 37.

The Wood Pewees are happiest on a hot, dry summer day, when they sing their plaintive little song, as they sit and watch for some luckless insect, which is doomed, as they quickly dart afater it. They are not at all timid, and will whistle "Pee-ah-wee" as we approach very close to their perch on a twig.

The nest of the Wood Pewee shows most marvelous taste in construction It is built of fibers and cobwebs, after the dainty architecture of the humming birds' nest, being saddled to the limb of a tree, in the same way, and then covered with lichens, until it resembles a beautiful piece of moss. The nests are not difficult to find, as the mother bird never seems to care who sees where her nest is located

The food of this fly-catcher consists of all of the flies, beetles, weevils, grasshoppers and including the house fly and the plum curculio

ALVIE MILLER OF LORAIN TRAINS FOR BIG BOUT

LORAIN, March 16.—Alvie Miller, premier local featherweight, concluded the preliminary training for his bout with Johnny McCoy at Marion St. Patrick's Day.

Alvie is in the best of condition and should have no trouble in putting McCoy on the road to Sleepy Hollow. Miller has been training for the past week with Jimmy Dunn, Korral in Cleveland and while in Lorain has been shining the rough spots with Alex Hart.

McCoy has met some of the toughest battlers in the grand old game and has come out on the long end of the rounds in the majority. McCoy is the lad that gave Carl Tremaine such a stiff battle a few weeks ago. Tremaine floored McCoy in the seventh but only after he had tried all the tricks of fightdom.

No doubt Miller will enter the ring at Marion a large favorite among the fans of that fair city for Alvie has had his reputation as a fighter established in that city many years ago.

The red currant grows wild all over Europe, in Caucasus, the Himalyas, Manchura, Japan and Arctic America.

Loyal Moose Bowlers Will Roll In National Tournament Tonight

ELYRIA, March 16.—The Moose Bowling team left for Buffalo today where they will participate in the National Bowling tournament. They will try their best to bring home at least a piece of the prize money.

The team is composed of Capt. Baum, Peters, Reynolds, Worthington, Heppebrand and Otten. They go on the alleys at 9:45 tonight. Tomorrow afternoon at 3:45 they will participate in the single and double contests.

Evans and Adams, of the Galas will also go along. They are to take part in the singles and doubles. Both men have been going good of late.

The contests are being held in an immense building with twenty-eight alleys New pins are being used, and they fall hard. However some scores have been rolled, but the Elyria bowlers figure they will stand as good a chance as any of the teams if they hit the pins right.

WIZARD AT PICKING WINNERS SAYS GIANTS WILL WIN RACE

"Walking Johnnie" Thompson, Famous Oracle of Texas, Makes His Annual Prediction — Yanks or Cleveland Will Win American League Pennant

BY KENT WATSON
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

ORANGE, TEX., March 16.—A coffin, a tombstone, two sets of false teeth, an assortment of crutches and walking canes, shoes, sox and hats, several dozen corn cob pipes, many humidors of smoking tobacco—all won from his townsmen—constitute a portion of the property of "Walking Johnnie" Thompson, eighty-four year old baseball oracle.

"Walking Johnnie" Thompson, professional baseball gambler, by an uncanny knowledge of baseball, has during the past eight years preyed upon the "bad judgment" of his auditors, now humbled into admitting that Thompson knows baseball better than any other living man.

As a tribute to his knowledge of the game and the ability of major league teams, certain Orange citizens have relinquished all claim to the houseboat in which Thompson lives—a rambling shack moored to the banks of the Sabine River in the rear of a livery stable, where "Walking Johnnie" details his views to local citizens. Citizens, who during the past eight years have pitted their judgment against that of Thompson also have deeded to the oracle ten acres of land, tax free insofar as the present holder is concerned, until the former owners have passed out

Meal Ticket For Life

The fires in "Walking Johnnie's" cookstove long since have been extinguished. He is honor guest with a lifetime meal ticket at a local restaurant. And even in the Winter he eats a plate of ice cream every day—having won such a confection for each day during the remainder of his lifetime from a local confectioner.

The tombstone numbered among his possessions was won from a local undertaker who disbelieved Thompson when the oracle announced—and backed his judgment—that the Boston Braves would win a world's championship from the Philadelphia Athletics. The same undertaker didn't believe, the season following that the Boston Americans would win the championship flag from the Philadelphia Nationals. Subsequently he signed an agreement to embalm and bury "Walking Johnnie" without cost.

Wins Cemetery Lot

In 1916, when the Boston Americans won the right to play off the series with the Brooklyn Nationals, "Walking Johnnie," figuring that his days on earth were numbered, decided to win a plot in the local cemetery. A groceryman believed that the Brooklyn team would win. After the series he deeded to Thompson a plot where the marvel will be buried.

Feebleness of the veteran doyester, who admits that he has never witnessed a major league baseball game, requires a couple of walking canes, crutches at times. Druggists and furniture dealers have lost a supply of both these articles to the silver-haired wizard.

Inspired, Says Mack

Connie Mack admits that Johnnie Thompson is "an inspired follower of baseball." There is a something about the old man, he says, that gives him the power to work a jinx on teams, playing thousands of miles away, against whom he has placed freak wagers. Thompson removed the hoodoo from Athletic players, Mack has declared, when they triumphed over the New York Giants in 1913.

"He's the world's greatest mascot," declared Mack recently, while here to pilot his team in a pre-season game against Branch Rickey's St. Louis Cardinals. "His knowledge of the game is uncanny. His power to review the merits of baseball organizations seems inspired. While many Orange citizens are prone to scoff at what he says, my knowledge of baseball—although his predictions sometimes are not as I would like them to be

By International News Service

ORANGE Texas, March 16.—The New York Giants will win the 1921 pennant in the National League and the New York Yankees or the Cleveland Indians in the American League.

Such is the prediction announced to-day by "Walking Johnnie" Thompson, Texas baseball oracle, maker of freak wagers and said by Connie Mack to be the greatest wizard the game has ever known.

—compels me to pay grave homage to his apparent wizardry."

Ask baseball's most ardent student who had the highest batting average for the American League in 1919 and Johnnie Thompson will tell you without referring to any sort of a record book, that Murphy of Chicago, had the highest average, .335 having played in only thirty games. And he'll tell you Ty Cobb batted .384 in 1919. Ask Johnnie Thompson who was the best fielding shortstop in the American League in 1919 and he'll tell you quickly that Scott of Chicago, was first, with a percentage of .976.

Has Wonderful Memory

Ask him anything about baseball as far back as the game dates and he'll answer correctly, for his memory by actual repeated tests, is as long as the life of the game—as unerring as any official record book that you may choose to refer to. Johnnie Thompson keeps no sort of documentary records. He remembers, he lives, dreams and thrives on baseball. He knows little else.

"Walking Johnnie" assumed his queer nom de plume because for a long period of years after the introduction of automotive power the queer old wizard of fandom declined to ride in a motor. He preferred to walk.

He declines to talk of his life prior to the beginning of the Civil War, of which he is a veteran. Johnnie Thompson discarded a drum in the battle of Gettysburg, he declares and shouldered a musket. A weather-worn discharge records the fact that he came out of that historic battle with an honorable record and two wounds. He served through the Civil War with the Sixty-first New York Volunteers.

Here in his home town, where he has resided for twenty-five years, the time has come when Thompson's monetary riches are somewhat depleted. Aboveboard respect fo, his baseball knowledge makes it almost impossible for the aged veteran to win money from his wagerings.

"If I can get the Chief of Police to put his baseball judgment against mine at the end of this season," says Thompson, "I'll soon be wearing a badge."

Scores of teams, representing some of the best bowlers in the state, came here to establish scores state came here to establish honors for their city.

JIMMY WILDE WILL RETURN TO AMERICA TO AGAIN FIGHT

By JACK VEIOCK
International News Sporting Editor

NEW YORK, March 16—Jimmy Wilde isn't discouraged over his knockout at the hands of Pete Herman.

Britain's little flyweight champion feels that he has an "out" as Herman was topheavy in the London bout, and doesn't believe his defeat will be held against him on this side as a fistic attraction.

As a result he plans to return to the United States in the near future to seek bouts with America's best, and he may even leave his calling card at Champ Joe Lynch's residence.

When Herman and Wilde met the little Briton weighed 108 pounds. Herman who had agreed to make 118 was several pounds overweight, and at the outset Jimmy rebelled, declaring he would not go on. As there was no opponent to substitute for Wilde, however, the promoters prevailed on the flyweight champion to take Herman on regardless of the weight and he did so with disastrous results.

Wilde is the only real champion England has had in the fistic division for some time and he made such a favorable impression when he visited this country last year that his return will, no doubt, be welcomed by the boxing fans and he should be able to find plenty of opponents.

While we have Pete Herman in mind it is timely to note here that Joe Lynch, who dethroned the New Orleans boy, stands ready and willing to give him a return bout at any time. Eddie Meade, manager of Lynch, pens us these lines to substantiate Joe's promise to Herman before they were matched at Madison Square Garden:

"On December 23, the day following Joe Lynch's victory over Pete Herman for the bantamweight championship of the world, Joe and myself stated that Herman would be granted a return match providing he defeated Jimmy Wilde in the London bout. What Herman accomplished with Wilde is history now.

"The new champion up to date has participated in several ring contests, but is ready to go to the post with the ex-title holder any time that Tex Rickard or any other leading promoter can sign the two boys to a set of articles to a fifteen round contest to a decision.

"In a conference at the Garden a few days ago between Mr Rickard and myself I was offered a chance to box Lynch with Midget Smith or Roy Moore to a decision at the Garden, but I declined the offer as Lynch has requested me to get Pete Herman for the first decision contest he appears in, as he wants to convince the skeptical that he is a real champion and one who stands ready to defend his title whenever he is called upon

"I chased Sammy Goldman, manager of Pete Herman for three years before Goldman would consent to box Lynch to a decision. After Herman lost the title he went on record as saying that he would chase Joe over the continent until he was given a return match. Herman can save a lot of money, time and railroad fare, as Lynch stands ready to meet the ex-champion any time.

"As numerous parties have asked me if Joe would ever box Pete in a decision contest, I ask you kindly to publish this letter and let the fans know that Joe intends to set a precedent as champion. This is the first time in the history of the boxing game that a champion ever agreed to give the defeated opponent a chance to redeem himself inside of four months."

LORAIN HIGH TRACK TEAM ON THEIR TOES

The track schedule for the coming season was explained to the candidates. The local speeders will see one of the hardest schedules in years this season. Two meets with Sandusky will feature, followed by events with the alumni and Elyria.

Poughkeepsie Racing Course May Be Abandoned in Future

By JACK VEIOCK.
International News Sporting Ed.

NEW YORK, March 16.—The old Poughkeepsie course, site of the annual intercollegate rowing regatta, may be abandoned after this year.

The regatta itself may be changed and a full week of rowing on a more suitable course substituted for the time-honored event.

The chances of these things coming to pass naturally depend on action by the Intercollegiate Rowing Association, and while comparatively few rowing critics believe that such a change is likely in the immediate future there is better than a good chance that it will be made eventually.

Coach Jim Rice, of Columbia University's oarsmen, is strong for a shift away from Poughkeepsie regatta obsolete and believes that a week of rowing races on a course such as could be had at Pelham Bay should be instituted in its place.

Rice is not alone in this belief, by any means, for Coach Joe Wright, of Pennsylvania, is in favor of moving away from Poughkeepsie to a course where big crowds could be accommodated and at a place easily reached by thousands of lovers of sport who do not attend the Poughkeepsie event because of a sad lack of accommodations. Rice points out that should the annual intercollegiate rowing event be lengthened to a week of rowing and staged at a suitable place it would draw more than 200,000 spectators.

The Pouhkeepsie course is easy enough to reach for New York devotees of rowing, but after they once get there accommodations are far from what they should be. Last year the big rowing event had to be moved to Lake Cuyahoga because the railroads found it impossible to furnish observation trains. This year the West Shore road has expressed doubt that it will be able to run an observation train and the idea of camping at some point along the course does not appeal to the rowing fan, who likes to watch every stage of the race.

While sentiment will lead some rowing devotees and perhaps some members of the board of stewards to hold up their hands in horror at the thought of moving from Poughkeepsie, there are a good many followers of the sport who would welcome a change for the reason that it would pave the way for the staging of a great American Henley on a pretentious scale and serve as a big boost for American rowing.

HELD TOO MANY JOBS

MARION, O., March 16.—Complying with a ruling of the state attorney general, Thomas E. Hunter, formerly state senator from Champaign county, and A. E. Marks, a railroad worker, today succeeded as councilmen Pearl H. Sells and Bert J. Shelton. Sells held down the jobs of superintendent of school janitors and councilman, and Shelton also drew pay for two jobs as deputy county treasurer and as councilman. The attorney general held that this was contrary to the spirit of the law.

DOCTOR TELLS HOW TO STRENGTHEN EYESIGHT 50 PER CENT IN ONE WEEK'S TIME IN MANY INSTANCES

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

Philadelphia, Pa. Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye strain or other eye weaknesses If so, you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

NOTE: Another prominent physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Bon-Opto is a very remarkable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent at one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." It is sold in Elyria and vicinity by all good druggists.—Advt. 2-16, 4-27
